"Things Put Off Until To-Morrow Are Never Done"

The old adage applies aptly to the matter of buying-plans. People who are accustomed to postponing a purchase "until to-morrow" are likely to find other plans more alluring, or more pressing, when to-mor-

The "ads" in The Times-Dispatch present buying opportunities AVAILABLE TO YOU TO-DAYdescribed to you while there is still enough of the day left for a visit to the stores.

They SERVE people who do to-day's duties to-day.

They are "interesting reading" to those home-folks who like to buy wisely-to "know values" well enough to know a real bargain when they see it, and who are as anxious to save a dollar as to earn one.

If there is a special buying opportunity offered in a store to-day, it is advertised in The Times-Dispatch to-day. That will be true to-morrow, as it was true

And it is well to consider that TO-DAY'S SPE-CIAL OFFERING AT SOME STORE MAY NOT BE MADE AGAIN IN MONTHS OR YEARS.

CHARGES AGAINST BELTON

Captain A. S. Wright, of the Third Dis-trict, who alleges that his subordinate was off his beat without leave for one hour and fifty minutes. The case will come up before the Board of Police Commissioners on July 16.

While the charges appear serious, worse infractions of the rules occur frequently. This is Belton's second time on the police force, he having been discharged in the spring of 1913, for being drunk while bringing a pris-oner from Norfolk to Richmond on an Old Dominion steamer. He was rein-stated several months ago, and was as-signed to duty in South Richmond. Be-fore his dismissal he was a detective fore his dismissal he was a detective

Belton last night stated that he had failed to "pull" the signal box at 2:15 o'clock one morning recently, but did, shortly after, call up Desk Sergeant Lipscomb and notified him of the fact. As patrolmen on night duty only call every hour, the matter is easily explained.

WILL BE DISCUSSED

Mass-Meeting Will Be Held To- State Military Authorities Make Morrow Afternoon at Business Men's Club.

Chamber of Commerce and Oth- Change in Plans Makes It Necesers Asked to Participate for City's Benefit.

Confidently believing that the inauguration of big league baseball in Richmond would in every way be of great advantage to the city, Alvin'M. Smith, president of the Business Men's Club, has issued a call inviting all business men and others who are interested in the movement to secure for this city the Haltimore International League baseball club, a Class AA organization, to attend a mass-meeting to be held at the Business Men's Club to-morrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Details of the proposition will be thoroughly discussed, and those attending will be given an opportunity to express their views, and to aid, should they see fit, in helping in the movement, both in a financial way and by their co-operation.

Those planning the mass-meeting desire that it be understood that the Business Men's Club is not backing any baseball organization, but the directors of the club believe that the proposition is worthy of the consideration of Richmond business men, and it was not until numerous requests from various members of the club and others interested had been received that the president finally issued a call for the meeting to hear the proposition fully discussed.

THINK BIG LEAGUE BALL

WOULD BENEFIT CITY

It is believed by many that the inauguration of big league baseball in Richmond would be of great henefit to the ousiness interests of the city, and that the success of the proposition is a certainty. The announcement that a mass-meeting has been called will undoubtedly be of much interest to business men and others, and it is expected that a large number will atttend. Indications are that there will be no lack of enthusiasm on the part of those who will attend the meeting, for many of Richmond's most successful business men are keenly interested in the national sport and will, it is thought, do all in their power to bring big league baseball here if it is possible to do so.

The attitude of those in attendance at the gathering will largely determine whether Richmond is to have big league baseball or stay in the class in which the local team is now playing, for if it is seen that a majority of those present look unfavorably upon the proposition it is probable that no further effect will be made any time soon to extry out the plans of those advocating an adoption of invitation.

Virginia Exposition Commissioners are now in possession of the deed to the site at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Grounds seeleted for the erection of the replica of Mount Vernon, it having been delivered them with formal ceremonies by President C. C. Moore, of the exposition company. High on the staff, to which it was raised by Mrs. C. K. Bryant, of Richmond, wife of the architect who will superintend the erection of the building, floats proudly the flag of the Old Dominion.

Ceremonies, at which the Virginia commissioners took formal possession of the site, were simple but very impressive, and were attended by a large number of former residents of this State. Following the conclusion of this part of the day's program, the commissioners and Architect Bryant were the guests of the exposition directors at a luncheoft, and later attended a review of the Coast Artillery Corps at Fort Winfield Scott.

The strains of "Dixie" ever make their appeal to the Southerner, and a San Francisco paper published a special story about Captain Raker and his appreciation of the song during the military review on the day the property deed was transferred. As the bluecoated soldiers marched by, says the paper, the band struck up "Dixie." The shoulders of hundreds who watched unconsciously straightened as did those of Captain Baker. He stood at attention with all of the military precision of a former day, and looking beyond the froming guns which guard the Golden Gate, he gazed once more on Virginia, and the time when the youth of the State heard the familiar strains and answered.

As the regiments passed and the veteran bared his head to the Stars and Stripes, the music blended into "Take Me Back to Old Virginia." Newbill.

No one of the crowd felt the occasion more keenly than did Captain Baker, and, according to the paper's account, his eyes were hidden bghind a mist that a kindly smile vainly endeavored to vanquish. The ceremonies relative to the day were regarded as the most impressive of any similar one yet held at the exposition. at the exposition.

TUBERCULOSIS FOUND IN HERD OF DAIRY COWS

State Commissioner Saunders Discovers Twenty-Eight Infected Animals.

Twenty-Eight Infected Animals.

State Dairy Commissioner Saunders yesterday announced that he had recently examined a herd of milk cows, which had been supplying several Washington people with milk, and found that of the herd of twenty-eight every cow over three years old was suffering from tuberculosis. Several of the younger showed no traces of the disease, and these were allowed to live, but all of the infected cattle were slaughtered.

The cattle appeared healthy. Commissioner Saunders said, and from outward appearances they were entirely free from disease, but the tests showed reaction in every case, except in the younger heifers. He said that three of tuberculosis. It is considered that this is an unusual case, in the light of such widespread contamination, and the commissioner said that it was the first of its kind he had found in the examination of some 6,000 or 7,000 cattle.

Dairymen, throughout the State are showing an increased intorest in their efforts to rid their herds of this discase, the commissioner said that the demands for testing by the department were steadily increasing, and that he expected even greater interest would be manifested in the future.

GATHERING FVIDENCE

GATHERING EVIDENCE

Testimony of West Virginia.

Commissioner Potter, acting for Virginia in the Virginia-West Virginia debt controversy, is busily engaged in the office of Second Auditor Page in gathering evidence with which to refute the testimony of West Virginia investigators relative to the amounts this State received from railroad and canal interests at the time of the separation of Virginia into the two States.

West Virginia listed these amounts very high, according to those representing Virginia, and another review of the books is now in progress. West Virginia holds that this State recovered for the entire State, before the division, and that as she could have claimed a third interest in them, this should refue, to some extent, the ruling of the Supreme Court in the present controversy.

IN ANNEXATION CASE

Judge Campbell Announces He May Reach Decision To-Morrow Afternoon.

HE HAS DETERMINED LINES

Prevailing Impression Is That He Has Made Up His Mind-Position of City Regarded by Counsel as Unusually Strong.

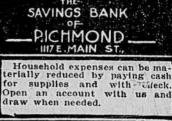

Judge A. A. Campbell yesterday an. " nounced that he expected to be able to enter his decree in the annexation case at 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, or that, found himself unable to do so by that time, he would be prepared to announce definitely then the time when he would do so. The announcement was made following the close of the argument just before ad-journment at 1:30 o'clock. Attorneys who have been appearing before Judge Campbell in the cast last night tendered him a banquet at the Westmoreland Club. The affair was entirely informal, and all of these present seemed bent upon having a good time. The diners did not adourn until late in the evening.

The announcement that the decree would probably be ready for announce-ment by to-morrow, has strengthened the belief that Judge Campbell had determined on the lines of annexation some time ago, and that they will bring to the city practically all of the territory asked for in the original program offered by Richmond. It has been generally conceeded that the city has made out an unusually strong case, and that, with the exception of
